GOVERNMENTS, STOCKS AND BONDS LEW YORK, June 8 .- The stock market to-day was comparatively quiet, only sugar refineries showing activity equal to that of the past fe days, and while owing to a false report of the decision of the court of appeals against the trust, the market was feverish and unsettled for the entire forenoon. A marked, strong tone developed later, and material advances were scored right through the entire list, and the upward movement ceased only with the close of business. Among the most influential factors in the rise was the news that the Western roads had agreed upon a new passenger association and renewal of hopes of a silver bill on expectation that discussion in the house of representatives would begin to-day. The feeling on this point was shown by the new advance in the price of silver, and the feeling upon the money question was altogether more settled than for a long time. Among those which are higher to-night are Missouri Pacific, 1%; Mexican Central, 1%; Atchison, 1%.

Dealings in the railroad bond market were still upon the same mode rate scale, with no very pronounced tone, though most of the list was steady to firm through out the day. The advances included San Francisco general 6°s 2 to 115.

OFFICE OF THE GARRYE. | FORT WORTH, TEX., June 3, 1830. A somewhat quister aspect is witnessed now in business circles in the city, more noticeable from the fact that for the past three or four weeks everybody was rushed, and to-day business is not the least dull, but a quiet, steady trade is being carried on in all departments. It being the first of the month there is a great dea, of "setting up" going on, and collections are of "settling up" going on, and collections are reported as fair.

The city's general markets are in good condition, and there are no important changes in quotations to note in any commodity.

Bradstreet's comments as follows on the condition of the imoney market: "During the past two weeks the New York loan market has experienced an appreciable relief from what at one time threatened to become a condition of decided stringency. A revival of speculative activity in Wall street, counciding with an abnormally low condition of the bank reserves, could not but result in pressure and a general tightening of the financial situation. With call loans tending from day to day to mount up towards 10 per cent., with time money in demand at high figures for long dates, and with the virtual stoppage of business in mercantile paper which followed, there is always danger of the appearance of distarthing symptoms, either in business or in speculation, or both. But these conditions have now, temporarily at least, passed off without leaving any evil effects. The extreme activity of the stock market has been modified, and the demand for funds for speculative purposes is consequently much less severe, while at the same time there has been a steady though moderate return of money from the interior to New York resulting in an appreciable increase in the available supply of funds at this center. In three weeks the surplus reserve shown by the bank statement has increased over $2,000,000, while the indications are that the actual gain in funds to the oanks from interior shipments do not fall much short of $4,000,000, the return flow so far as can be observed being still in progress. There is consequently a much easier feeling, as indicated by the fall in call loan rates to a $ per cent, basis during the present week, and a manifestation of a more liberal tendency on the

There is consequently a much easier feeling, as indicated by the fall in call loan rates to a * per cent. basis during the present week, and a manifestation of a more liberal tendency on the part of buyers in the commercial paper market.

'At the same time it must be owned that the present more favorable spect of affairs does not, in the opinion of many, offer very satisfactory guarantees for the fature of the market. The most striking point in the situation is the fact that the New York reserves are abnormally low. Even with the increase of the past few weeks, the surplus reserve held by the clearing-house banks is less than $4,000,000, as against 15,000,000 as year ago and $28,000,000 at the corresponding period of 1888. In fact, at a season when money might, in the ordinary course of business, be expected to accumulate in the New York banks, it comes back from the interior slowly and scantily. In fact, the increase of the reserves seems to be due as much if not more to the high rates obtainable for money on stocks and collateral loans than to any following out of the old tendency in this respect. The fact that the West and South retain money for longer periods and in more active use acts in the direction of decreasing the volume of the demands that may be made on New York at the time of the crop movement. Of course the crop movement season is still far in the distance, and the approach be made on New York at the time of the crop movement. Of course the crop movement season is still far in the distance, and the approach of July I with its therest and dividend disbursements has a tendency to accumulate funds at New York. This may be relied upon to aid in increasing the reserves to a point more commensurate with the sire of the demands on them, which may be expected to commence in the month of August.
